

Editor's Note: During the 1960s and 1970s, the time during which this marker was approved, the process for obtaining a Texas Historical Marker was much more informal than it is now. Substantial research and writing was done at the State level, and not necessarily forwarded from local communities, as it is today.

The first Baptist Church of Bryan submitted its 75th yearbook to the State, and was granted a marker in 1966. Interested parties may view this document, as well as related historical information, in the vertical files of the Carnegie History Center in Bryan, Texas.
